Kana was a junior high school student. At her school she was in the volleyball club. There were fifteen players in her team. Her teammates said that Kana was the best player in the team. So she became captain of the team.

Kana's volleyball team was going to have a big tournament in her city the next month. It was the most important tournament of the year for them. But she thought that the team had ^(a)a problem. All of her teammates were practicing hard but they could not win games. She wanted to do something but didn't know what to do.

One day, when they were practicing, an accident happened. Kana got injured. She went to the hospital, and the doctor said that she should not play for about a week. She felt sad because they were going to have the tournament soon.

The next day Kana went to the practice and said to her teammates, "The doctor said I should not practice volleyball for about a week. I'm very sorry, but I can't play in the practice game this weekend." Everyone looked sad. After that, Kana stayed there and watched their practice. She knew that her teammates were trying hard but they were making a lot of mistakes. She said to them, "If you make so many mistakes, you can't win the game. You should be more careful." Then, Hiroko, one of her teammates, said to her, "Don't be so angry, Kana. We understand that we should not make mistakes, and we are doing our best. But we aren't good players like you." Kana didn't know what to say.

From that day, Kana was thinking about Hiroko's words. That weekend, her team had the practice game. Kana could not play but went to watch the game. They played against Sakura Junior High School.

A

They sometimes made mistakes but they were helping and encouraging each other. When they made mistakes, they were always saying with smiles, "Don't worry," or "You can do it next time." Kana's teammates were also trying hard, but they lost the game.

After the game, the coach said to Kana, "You could not practice for about a week, and could not play today. But you watched the practice and today's game. What did you think about today's game?" Kana thought for some time and said, "I learned ^(b)an important thing from Sakura Junior High School today. I worried about mistakes too much. But everyone makes mistakes. It's more important for us to help each other and enjoy playing volleyball. I think I did something bad as captain. I want to say 'I'm sorry' to my teammates."

The next day Kana started practicing with her teammates again. When they made mistakes, she encouraged them with smiles. Everyone was trying to talk to each other to play better as a team. After the practice, one of her teammates said, "Today I got a lot of energy from everyone's words." "I ^(c)did too," Hiroko said with a big smile.

The day before the tournament, Kana went to talk to her coach. She said, "Now I understand what I should do as captain." The coach said, "Kana, you have wonderful teammates and your teammates have a wonderful captain. And all of you think about each other. I'm happy to know that B." "I'm sure our team can play better in the tournament. I really want to win the game with my teammates. I think we are ready for it," Kana smiled.
