エまでの中から選びなさい。

Miyuki: Hi, Chloe. You look so happy. Did something good happen to you?

Chloe: Hi, Miyuki. (1) I went to a sukiyaki restaurant with my host family yesterday.

I ate out at a Japanese restaurant for the first time. The dishes were so amazing.

Miyuki: Great! I'm glad that you enjoyed Japanese food.

Chloe: It was a wonderful experience, so I feel like trying other Japanese dishes. Can you recommend any other good Japanese restaurants around here?

Miyuki: Yes, I want you to (2) restaurant just in front of the station.

Chloe: Oh. I've seen that restaurant before. I want to try it, but I'd rather eat Japanese noodles like soba or udon.

Miyuki: Don't worry, Chloe. The restaurant provides a variety of Japanese dishes, so you can also have some kinds of noodles, soups, and tempura there.

Chloe: Fantastic! I want to go there next time. (3)

Miyuki: Yes. I think that's a good idea because the restaurant is very popular and always crowded.

Chloe: Thank you for the information, Miyuki!

(1) ア Guess what?

イ Pardon me?

ウ Take care.

エ No problem.

(2) ア keep the tempura

[Graph 2]

[報告]

I did research about the situation of lost items at our school.

Look at Graph 1. I discovered that the percentage of lost items is different in each place. For example, lost stationery goods are often found in the classrooms, and then the gym. Towels are usually found in the gym or on the ground. As for ①, they are found at similar percentages in the three places.

Next, Graph 2 focuses on stationery, water bottles, umbrellas, and towels. The graph explains the number of the lost items through the year. The number of stationery items is always higher than the other items. The number of water bottles, umbrellas, and towels changes during the year. These three items all increase in ②. I think it's because they are used a lot in hot weather. They are not often ③.

I hope these graphs help us reduce the number of lost items. Thank you.

(1) 下線部①、②にあてはまる組み合わせとして最も適当なものを、次のアからエまでの中から選びなさい。

3 次の文章を読んで、あとの(1)から(5)までの問いに答えなさい。

Exercise is important for a healthy life. It makes our bodies strong, helps us relax, and gives us an active life. In 2024, the Japanese government did a survey about exercise among students in elementary school and junior high school. According to the survey results, the number of the students who did physical activities decreased compared to ten years ago. This situation shows that we need to think about how to keep a healthy life through exercise.

So, how can we do exercise for a healthy life? Some people say it is better to do ①light exercise every day, but other people believe that it is more effective to do hard exercise a few days a week. People who like doing daily light exercise may say it is easier to continue and safer for the body. For example, walking and stretching for 20 minutes every day can improve blood circulation and help us stay healthy. According to research, these kinds of daily light exercises reduce stress, so they help us sleep better at night. Also, this type of exercise does not (A) our knees or ankles so much.

People who like doing hard exercise a few days a week may think that it brings positive results. A survey says hard exercise helps us make our muscle strong. Moreover, it can improve our heart and lung function in a shorter time. Some people say hard exercise will be enough if we run, swim, or dance for an hour three days a week. As for the rest of the week, ②. It is because we need time to help our body rest.

Each type of exercise has its own good points. The best choice depends on our health condition, goals, and so on. After all, doing exercise is the key to good health, but some elementary school and junior high school students do not do enough exercise. ③If you recommend one type of exercise to them, which is better, daily light exercise or hard exercise a few days a week?

(注) exercise 運動 survey 調査 stretch ストレッチをする blood circulation 血流
stress ストレス muscle 筋肉 lung 肺 function 機能

(1) 下線①のついた英語について、文章中に書かれていることと一致するものを、次のアからエまでの中から一つ選びなさい。

- ア If you cannot sleep well at night because of stress, light exercise is one of the solutions.
- イ More elementary school and junior high school students do light exercise than before.
- ウ If you want to improve your heart and lung function, it may be good to do light exercise.
- エ The best time to do light exercise is the same as the best time to do hard exercise.

(2) 文章中の(A)にあてはまる最も適当なものを、次のアからエまでの中から選びなさい。

ア protect イ hurt ウ spend エ give

(3) 文章中の ② にあてはまる最も適当なものを、次のアからエまでの中から選びなさい。

- ア we need to do exercise every day for the results
- イ we must do exercise 20 minutes for 3 days a week
- ウ we must not stop these kinds of exercise for the results
- エ we should not do these kinds of exercise

(4) 次のアからエまでの中から、その内容が文章中に書かれていることと一致するものを一つ選びなさい。

- ア The Japanese government report in 2024 says junior high school students like hard exercise.
- イ Doing hard exercise a few days a week is better than doing daily light exercise for us all.
- ウ The best way to do exercise depends on our health condition and goals, and so on.
- エ Walking and stretching for 20 minutes every day are examples of hard exercise.

(5) 下線③のついた英語の問いを基に、授業でミニディベートを行います。次の【メモ】は、ある生徒が準備のために作成したものです。【 ① 】、【 ② 】のそれぞれにあてはまる最も適当なものを、あとのアからエまでの中から選びなさい。

【メモ】

○ 【My opinion】

I recommend daily light exercise. For students who don't usually do exercise, daily light exercise is easy to start. They can go walking around their house and do stretching without any special equipment.

○ 【Question for me】

You think daily light exercise is better for the students, but isn't it difficult to do exercise 【 ① 】? I think their school life is busy.

○ 【My answer to the question】

I see your point. I don't think light exercise needs much time, so they can do it even after school. 【 ② 】, light exercise may be possible for people who can't move their body easily.

- ① ア all day イ every day ウ one day エ someday
- ② ア For example イ However ウ In addition エ On the other hand

- 4 放課後、伊藤先生 (Mr. Ito) と留学生のウィリアム (William) が職員室で話しています。次の対話を読んで、あとの(1)から(4)までの問いに答えなさい。

Mr. Ito: Hi, William. How's your life in Japan?

William: I feel excited, and a little surprised by many new experiences.

Mr. Ito: I understand. What has been the most interesting thing so far?

William: Although everyone has a lot of things to do, people still take part in local events such as summer festivals and cleanup activities.

Mr. Ito: I agree. Many families in our community are trying to continue these customs with their work and study. It's _____ ① _____, but I think it's important. Also, these customs are often a mix of tradition and modern ideas. For example, local events sometimes include both (A).

William: I see. Learning Japanese tradition is very interesting. Do you know any good places for that?

Mr. Ito: Well, how about the City Park? Look at this website on my tablet. The Japanese garden provides seasonal scenery, and the Public Event Area provides fireworks in the evening. Also, we can experience making pottery or doing calligraphy at the Cultural Activity Facility, but right now, only making pottery is available. At the Traditional Performance Theater, there are two performances to choose from, rakugo or kyogen.

William: Wow, I'm really _____ ② _____ kyogen and kabuki. I often watched kyogen and kabuki performances in my country, but I've never watched rakugo, so I want to try it this time.

Mr. Ito: OK. The park is very large, so you should use a bicycle. There are several shops to rent a bicycle near the entrance. Check them out on the day.

William: That's a great idea! I'm looking forward to visiting the City Park.
